Seven of them (4B, 2W, 1N) are under death sentence in two states, two (1W, 1B) are under death sentence in three states, and the others (2B, 3W, 1N) are serving term sentences previously imposed in other states. All multiple death-sentenced inmates are listed in their respective several state totals, but each is counted as only one inmate in the national total.

This issue of Death Row, U.S.A. includes bracketed names for 134 capital inmates. The brackets indicate that either a new sentence proceeding is pending following a court order, or that a court-ordered reversal of conviction or sentence is not yet final due to an appeal filed by the State.

Twenty-nine male and two female inmates in this issue appear with a (#) sign next to their names. These inmates were under the age of eighteen at the time of offense.

DECIDED IN THE U.S. SUPREME COURT

Yates v. Aiken, 108 S. Ct. 534 (January 12, 1988). The Court held that its 1985 decision in Franklin v. Francis, 471 U.S. 307 (1985), requiring jury instructions on the state's burden to proven "malice and intent" is retroactive to cases decided before its issuance.

Lowenfield v. Phelps, 108 S. Ct. 546 (1988). The trial judge did not unfairly coerce the jury into returning a verdict of death by repeatedly asking that its deadlocked members to deliberate further. The court also held that there is no constitutional violation where a death sentence is based on aggravating factors which duplicate an element of the crime.

Satterwhite v. Texas, 108 S. Ct. 1792 (May 31, 1988). The admission at trial of testimony by a psychologist about his examination of a defendant, performed without defense counsel's knowledge, violates the Sixth Amendment and cannot be held harmless error.

Amadeo v. Zant, 108 S. Ct. 1771 (May 31, 1988). The Court unanimously found that Amadeo successfully explained his failure to raise in timely fashion a claim of racial discrimination involving a post-trial discovery prosecutorial scheme to underrepresent blacks and women on the jury that indicted, convicted and sentenced him. Amadeo will receive a new trial as a result of that disclosure.

Mills v. Maryland, 108 S. Ct. 1860 (June 6, 1988). The Maryland sentencing verdict form, which required that the jury unanimously agree that a mitigating circumstance exist before considering it in sentencing, is unconstitutional. The Court found that following Lockett v. Ohio, 438 U.S. 586 (1978), the sentencer may not be precluded from considering any relevating mitigating factor.

Johnson v. Mississippi, 108 S. Ct. 1981 (June 13, 1988). Reversal of Johnson's death sentence is required because it was based in part on a prior New York conviction that has since been invalidated.

Maynard v. Cartwright, 108 S. Ct. 1853 (June 6, 1988). The Court held that Oklahoma has applied their "[the crime was] heinous, atrocious and cruel" aggravating circumstance in unconstitutionally vague and overbroad manner.

Franklin v. Lynaugh, 56 U.S.L.W. 4698 (June 21). The Texas sentencing procedure did not unconstitutionally limit the jury's ability to give mitigating weight to evidence of Franklin's prison record or to lingering doubts about his guilt.

Thompson v. Oklahoma, 56 U.S.L.W. 4892 (June 29). Execution of a person who is under sixteen years of age at the time of his or her offense, where the state has not specifically legislated the death penalty for such minors, is unconstitutional under the "cruel and unusual punishment" clause of the Eighth Amendment.

PENDING CONSIDERATION

Dugger v. Aubrey Adams (No. 87-121) (review granted at 108 S. Ct. 1106, March 7) The Court will decide the applicability of Caldwell v. Mississippi, 472 U.S. 320 (1985), which prohibits a prosecutor from suggesting that the responsibility for sentence rests with the appellate court rather than the jury, to Florida, where the final decision as to punishment rests with the trial judge. Adams will be argued on November 1.

Zart v. Billy Moore (No. 87-1104) (review granted at 108 S. Ct. 1467, April 18). The Court granted Georgia's petition to consider abuse of the writ and procedural default questions in successive habeas corpus petitions.

Tompkins v. Texas (No. 87-6405) (review granted at 56 U.S.L.W. 3789, May 13). (1) Under what circumstances is an instruction on lesser included offenses required in a capital case? (2) Under Batson v. Kentucky, 476 U.S. 79 (1986), what standards should determine whether a prosecutor's explanation for the striking of black jurors under is satisfactorily race-neutral, or merely dubious and pretextual?

Penry v. Lynaugh (No. 87-6177) (review granted at 56 U.S.L.W. 4894, June 30). The Court will decide whether, and under what circumstances, Texas courts must provide a sentencing instruction to juries which allows them to give independent weight to mitigating evidence about the defendant or the crime. A second question raises the constitutionality of executing the mentally retarded.

High v. Zant (No. 87-5666) and Wilkins v. Missouri (No. 87-6025) (56 U.S.L.W. 3894, June 30) ask the Court to decide whether the execution of a 17-year old and 16-year old offends the Constitution. These cases will be argued in tandem.

STATE OF ALABAMA

Justice Lewis F. Powell, Jr.
United States Supreme Court
Washington, D.C. 20543

Dear Justice Powell:

I understand that you are involved in a study of the problem of delay and successive petitions in federal habeas proceedings, including those involving capital cases. Having handled post-conviction capital punishment litigation in Alabama for nine years, I am also concerned about those problems, and I have enclosed some materials relating to the subject.

The enclosed execution chart lists the date of commission of the capital offense and the date of execution in each of the 101 post-Furman executions. Of particular relevance are the 90 executions which were non-consensual.

Pages 5 and 6 of the enclosed capital data sheet list the average period of delay by state and by federal circuit. The capital data sheet also includes death row population data by state and by federal circuit. The death row population data is taken from the Legal Defense Fund's "Death Row, U.S.A." report. I have compiled the execution data independently.

Also enclosed is an example of the orders which our Southern District issues in all first-time habeas proceedings involving death row inmates. Paragraphs 2 - 4 of the enclosed order is a more detailed version of the order originated by Judge Hand, which you commended in your speech to the Eleventh Circuit Judicial Conference in 1983. See, 69 A.B.A.J. 1000 (Aug. 1983). I believe that such orders are helpful in reducing the number of claims raised in successive petitions, although they are obviously not a complete solution to the problem.

I have the capital data sheet on a computer and I update it and the execution chart immediately after each execution.

Justice Lewis F. Powell, Jr.

If you wish, I will be glad to send you updated copies as they are produced. I would also be honored to assist in any other way you desire.

Please forgive the impertinence of this unsolicited letter, but I do feel that the problem you are studying is a serious one. As Chief Judge Clark wrote for the Fifth Circuit in a successive petition case last year:

The courts themselves have been slow to react to their new responsibility in today's death penalty cases. During the period when the Supreme Court of the United States interdicted capital punishment and sorted out the constitutional propriety of statutes and trial procedures, the population of death row in many states multiplied. That dam has broken, and the rush of cases is upon the courts. Justice requires that in each instance capital punishment be imposed with maximum assurance of scrupulous legality. But, justice equally demands an assurance that such punishment be imposed when the minds of men still retain memory of the crime committed. Otherwise, capital punishment becomes a sort of second, albeit legal, crime.

... I write to plead for change to come and come quickly before respect for the law erodes beyond repair.

Brogdon v. Butler, 824 F.2d 338, 344 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 108 S.Ct. 13 (1987).

Respectfully yours,

ED CARNES
Assistant Attorney General

All multiple death-sentenced inmates are listed in their respective several state totals, but each is counted as only one inmate in the national total.

Reversals []: This issue of Death Row, U.S.A. includes bracketed names for 151 capital inmates. The brackets indicate that either a new sentence proceeding is pending following a court order, or that a court-ordered reversal of conviction or sentence is not yet final due to an appeal filed by the State.

Juveniles #: Thirty inmates (28 males and two females) appear with a (#) sign next to their names. These inmates were under the age of eighteen at the time of offense.

IN THE U.S. SUPREME COURT

Dugger v. Aubrey Adams, 57 U.S.L.W. 4276 (decided February 28, 1989). The Court held that the favorable ruling in Caldwell v. Mississippi, 472 U.S. 320 (1985), which prohibits misinforming juries about their responsibility in sentencing, cannot be applied to Mr. Adams' case. Although the instructions given at Mr. Adams' trial violated the federal rule later established in Caldwell, they were also error under state law at the time of Mr. Adams' trial. Because Mr. Adams' lawyers failed to object to the instruction during his trial or on appeal, he is now procedurally barred from benefiting from the new law.

Teague v. Lane, 57 U.S.L.W. 4233 (decided February 22, 1989). The Court held that the claim that the Sixth Amendment forbids racially discriminatory use of peremptory strikes in selecting juries, will not be considered in cases whose convictions were final at the time the rule in Batson v. Kentucky, 476 U.S. 79 (1986) was announced. Furthermore, new law (like Batson) will not be applied retroactively to habeas corpus petitioners unless failing to do so would violate notions of "fundamental fairness" (i.e. where guilt of the accused is in question) or challenge the authority of law enforcement to proscribe certain kinds of individual conduct. Justice O'Connor held that the denial of a representative jury in a criminal case does not meet those exceptions. (Non-capital case).

Zant v. Billy Moore (No. 87-1104) (review granted at 108 S. Ct. 1467, April 18) (argued November 29). The Court granted Georgia's petition to consider abuse of the writ and procedural default questions in successive habeas corpus petitions.

Tompkins v. Texas (No. 87-6405) (review granted at 56 U.S.L.W. 3789, May 13) (argued December 6). (1) Under what circumstances is an instruction on lesser included offenses required in a capital case? (2) Under Batson v. Kentucky, 476 U.S. 79 (1986), what standards should determine whether a prosecutor's explanation for the striking of black jurors under is satisfactorily race-neutral, or merely dubious and pretextual?

Penry v. Lynaugh (No. 87-6177) (review granted June 30 at 56 U.S.L.W. 4894) (argued January 11, 1989). The Court will decide whether, and under what circumstances, Texas courts must provide a sentencing instruction to juries which allows them to give independent weight to mitigating evidence about the defendant or the crime. A second question raises the constitutionality of executing the mentally retarded.

Stanford v. Kentucky (No. 87-5765) (granted October 31 1988 at 57 U.S.L.W. 3259) and Wilkins v. Missouri (No. 87-6025) (56 U.S.L.W. 3894, June 30) (to be argued March 27). Is the execution of a 17-year old and 16-year old cruel and unusual punishment?

South Carolina v. Gathers (No. 88-305) (granted October 11 at 57 U.S.L.W. 3259) (to be argued March 28). Whether prosecutorial comments about the character of the victim violated Booth v. Maryland, 107 S.Ct. 2529 (1987) and whether Booth (forbidding the use of victim-impact statements in capital cases) was wrongly decided.

McCoy v. Giarratano (No. 88-411) (granted October 31 at 57 U.S.L.W. 3304) (to be argued March 22). Does the right to meaningful access to the courts for death-sentenced inmates require that the State of Virginia provide attorneys and litigation costs for a habeas corpus appeal in the state courts?

IN THE U.S. SUPREME COURT

Capital Cases Decided During the 1989 Term

Selvage v. Collins, 494 U.S. ___, 110 S.Ct. ___, 108 L.Ed.2d. 93 (1990) (per curiam) (vacated and remanded to the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit to determine whether petitioner's Penry claim was procedurally barred under Texas law).

Blystone v. Pennsylvania, 494 U.S. ___, 110 S.Ct. ___, 108 L.Ed.2d 255 (1990). Pennsylvania death penalty statute mandating a death sentence if the jury finds at least one aggravating circumstance and no mitigating circumstances held to satisfy the requirements of the Eighth Amendment.

Boyde v. California, 494 U.S. ___, 110 S.Ct. ___, 108 L.Ed.2d 316 (1990). California capital sentencing instruction to jury on mitigation held not to violate Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments as to defendant who presented mitigating evidence of background and character; second instruction, mandating a death sentence if the jury finds aggravating circumstances outweigh mitigating circumstances, held to satisfy Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments.

Butler v. McKellar, 494 U.S. ___, 110 S.Ct. ___, 108 L.Ed.2d 347 (1990). Applying Teague v. Lane, rule of Arizona v. Roberson, concerning police-initiated interrogation following suspect's request for counsel, held not retroactively available to support federal habeas corpus petition.

McCoy v. North Carolina, 494 U.S. ___, 110 S.Ct. ___, 108 L.Ed.2d 369 (1990). North Carolina capital sentencing instructions, which prevent sentencing jury from considering any mitigating factor that the jury does not unanimously find, held to violate the Eighth Amendment under Mills v. Maryland.

Saffle v. Parks, 494 U.S. ___, 110 S.Ct. ___, 108 L.Ed.2d 415 (1990). Claim that Eighth Amendment was violated by Oklahoma capital sentencing instruction that jury avoid any influence of sympathy held to involve a proposed new rule that, under Teague v. Lane, did not entitle accused to federal habeas relief.

Clemons v. Mississippi, No. 88-6878, 58 U.S.L.W. 4395 (March 28, 1990). Held constitutionally permissible for an appellate court to reweigh aggravating and mitigating evidence to uphold a jury-imposed death sentence that is based in part on an invalid or improperly defined aggravating factor. Vacated and remanded, however, since it was unclear whether Mississippi Supreme Court correctly employed reweighing.

Whitmore v. Arkansas, No. 88-7146, 58 U.S.L.W. 4495, (April 24, 1990). Petitioner, a third party seeking to challenge the validity of a death sentence imposed on a capital defendant who elected to forgo his right to appeal, held not to have standing.

Cases Pending in the 1989 Term

Walton v. Arizona, No. 88-7351 (argued January 17, 1990). Whether Arizona's death penalty statute violates the Sixth Amendment by denying a jury trial on the factual elements of capital murder specified by state law? Whether the statute violates the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments by: (1) requiring that death be imposed if the accused fails to prove the existence of mitigating evidence sufficiently substantial to call for leniency; and (2) precluding the sentencer from considering mitigating circumstances unless the defendant has established their existence by a preponderance of the evidence? Whether Arizona's "especially heinous, cruel or depraved" aggravating circumstance, as interpreted and applied by the Arizona courts, fails to channel the sentencer's discretion as required by the Eighth Amendment?

Ricketts v. Jeffers, No. 89-189 (argued February 21, 1990). Whether Court of Appeals for Ninth Circuit correctly held that Arizona's construction of its "especially heinous, cruel or depraved" aggravating circumstance violated the rule of Godfrey v. Georgia and Maynard v. Cartwright?

Sawyer v. Smith, No. 89-5809 (argued April 25, 1990). Whether rule of Caldwell v. Mississippi, condemning false and misleading prosecutorial arguments to the jury concerning jurors' sentencing responsibility, should be applied retroactively? Whether petitioner is entitled to a new sentencing hearing on the ground that his Eighth Amendment rights were violated when the prosecutor made false and misleading arguments to his capital jury concerning the jurors' sentencing responsibility?

*/ Eighteen inmates in this issue appear with a plus sign (+) next to their names. Six of them (2B, 3W, 1N) are under death sentence in two states; two (1B, 1W) are under death sentence in three states; the others (4B, 6W) are serving term sentences previously imposed in other states. All multiple death-sentenced inmates are listed in their respective several state totals, but each is counted as only one inmate in the national total.

Reversals []: This issue of Death Row, U.S.A. includes bracketed names for 131 capital inmates. The brackets indicate that either a new sentence proceeding is pending following a court order, or that a court-ordered reversal of conviction or sentence is not yet final due to an appeal filed by the State.

Juveniles # : Thirty-six inmates (35 males and one female) appear with a (#) sign next to their names. These inmates were under the age of eighteen at the time of offense.
