Mission Statement: The Washington and Lee Journal of Civil Rights and Social Justice (JCRSJ) is a biannual scholarly publication focusing on legal issues that affect historically underrepresented classes of persons. The Journal has published articles covering a wide variety of subject matter including real estate, education, healthcare, family, environment, public welfare, and international rights. The Journal’s mission is to explore the intersection of majority and minority culture through discrete legal issues. To that end, the Journal seeks to provide a space for scholars of all persuasions to expand and develop a theoretical, critical, and socially relevant dialogue with the legal community. The articles published by the Journal are building blocks for understanding the issues that face our society today.

Statement of Ownership and Management: The Washington and Lee Journal of Civil Rights and Social Justice (ISSN 1942-5732) is owned by Washington and Lee University and is published twice a year by students of Washington and Lee University School of Law. The Journal is printed at Joe Christensen, Inc., 1540 Adams Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68521 and is entered as a periodical with postage paid at post offices in Lexington, Virginia, and Lincoln, Nebraska. POSTMASTER: Send address corrections to Washington and Lee Journal of Civil Rights and Social Justice, Washington and Lee School of Law, Lexington, Virginia 24450. Babatunde Cadmus is the Editor in Chief for the 2014–2015 issues. The Journal may be contacted by phone at (540) 458–8119, or by e-mail at jcrsj@law.wlu.edu.

Subscription Information: The subscription price for each volume is $35, which includes shipping and handling within the United States. International subscriptions are $40 including shipping and handling.
